Charles University offers a wide range of support to students with disabilities. However, if you would like to use, or have entitlement to study modification, you must be registered at your faculty as a student with special needs. In this section you will read how to proceed and what are the available options of assistance.

Centrum Carolina provides directly the following services:

- digitisation of study materials,
- facilitation of study assistance,
- lending technical and adaptive aids,
- reading room with free printing and copying of study materials,
- facilitation of training of orientation skills and independent movement,
- training seminars for students with special needs,
- counselling and assistance in dealing with individual study matters.

Other forms of support are provided directly by the faculties and their specialised units. These involve, for example:

- interpreting, transcribing and note taking services,
- individual tuition,
- time compensation,
- sporting activities.

This part also includes a more detailed description of the individual services and a guide to obtaining them.
