
Time compensation

Student can be given more time to perform a certain study activity (e.g. a written exam) than is the standard time provided for such activity (taking into account the student's special needs).

If, according to the functional diagnostics special needs assessment, the student is eligible for extra time, this modification will be arranged by the contact person at the faculty in collaboration with the relevant teachers.

If you want to apply this modification, please request it in advance (14 days).
