
Interpreting services

Interpreting services are provided to students usually during tuition and tutorials when dealing with study matters (e.g. at the Student Administration Office, when communicating with CU staff and during in all other situations relating to study. Interpreting services are arranged for individual students by the faculty contact person on the basis of an agreement with the student and in cooperation with tutors. The contact person will discuss the specific nature and scope of the cooperation with the interpreter and will then supervise the fulfilment of the contractual relationship. The concrete dates of the interpreting are then set by the interpreters and the individual students. During lectures students can use the services of more than one interpreter.

Interpreters are provided by the Institute of Deaf Studies at the FA CU , the Czech Union of the Deaf and other organisations.
